

British Climate Lies will lead to Genocide

Statement by Tom Gillesberg, chairman of The Schiller Institute in Denmark, March 10, 2009.

The Copenhagen March 10-12, 2009, conference "Climate Change: Global Risks, Challenges and Decisions," while being wrongly promoted as an "International Scientific Conference on Climate Change," is part of the latest aggressive assault by the British Empire against the just yearnings of the nation states and peoples of the world for economic development. It is intended to upstage the already unscientific IPCC conferences with Goebbels-like disinformation and alarmist propaganda, and, thereby, set the stage for a global policy change at the Copenhagen COP15 summit in December – a change that would lead to massive genocide. It is a blatant attempt to prevent a world struck by financial crisis from uniting around establishing a New Just World Economic Order, which would secure economic development for the world's population – especially the poorest and most needy people.

For a long time, the British, and their puppets, such as the U.S. Bush-administration, and the Danish Fogh-administration, had been busy waging wars, and weakening the power of nation-states through the myth of the benefit of the free trade and globalization policy pushed by the speculative financial markets in London and on Wall Street. As that myth has collapsed along with the global financial collapse, they are now trying to preempt the demand for establishing a New Bretton Woods international credit system based on cooperation between nation-states, as put forward by the American economist and statesman Lyndon LaRouche. Instead, they are attempting to make climate change the focus of the Obama-administration, and other governments, hoping to thereby prevent a Franklin D. Roosevelt-like U.S.-led global New Deal.

The Danish government, and others mobilizing for the December climate summit in Copenhagen, are either in the long British tradition of anti-human Malthusianism, or are useful idiots being used for that purpose. Remember the long evil tradition of the brutal British Empire, and British Prince consort Phillip's published statement, that he would like to be reincarnated as a deadly virus in order that he could kill as many people as possible. Or British agent Henry Kissinger's secret National Security Study Memorandum 200 from 1975, which recommended reducing the population of populous nations around the world in order to protect their resources for later use by the English speaking peoples. The present-day British Empire has now decided to use the cloak of climate change policies to obtain their Malthusian objectives (Note that the Empire is not run by the British people to their advantage, but by the private international financial interests that earlier ran the official British Empire through private multinational corporations.)

There was never any valid scientific documentation proving man-made warming of the planet due to CO2 or anything else. On the contrary, Danish scientists, such as Henrik Svensmark from the Danish Space Research Center, have proven that solar activity, not human activity, is the main factor in the Earth's changing climate (as can be seen at www.schillerinstitut.dk/climatelies/). But even if one speculates that man's activities could be involved in global climate change, and there were effects such as rising sea levels in the world, it is a criminal policy to spend huge resources on reducing man-made emission of CO2 by, for instance, reducing the electricity use, or massive investments in windmills and solar panels. Besides destroying the environment, they are expensive and inefficient technologies, and increase the cost of living and eating on this planet – a policy which leads to genocide against the poorer people of the world, due to the lack of available resources to provide for all seven billion people on the Earth.

Only the uniquely human ability to create new scientific and technological breakthroughs, such as nuclear fission and fusion-based power, can provide the energy and resources needed to feed and clothe the world's population. But that is not the agenda being put forward by British Prince Charles as he now embarks on a speaking tour in South America, or by Prime Minister Gordon Brown, and the architect of the Iraq war, Tony Blair, on their recent visit to the U.S. Instead, they preached that the U.S. should participate in the December Copenhagen summit as the event where the whole world will be forced to adopt anti-human policies in the name of preventing climate change.

Don't let the British fool you into aiding and abetting genocide. Get smart, quick – before it's too late. All the information you need is at www.schillerinstitut.dk/climatelies/ and www.larouchepac.com.
